

Dallas' Jody Rodenberg Among Texas Top Women Attorneys in Texas Monthly

Business trial lawyer Jody Rodenberg of Sommerman, McCaffity, Quesada & Geisler LLP is featured in the January issue of Texas Monthly in a special section of Top Women Attorneys in Texas – those who were selected to the Texas Super Lawyers or Rising Stars list for 2018.

Rodenberg was selected to the Texas Rising Stars list based on her business litigation practice. To be considered for Rising Stars, an attorney must be 40 or younger or in practice no more than 10 years. Only 2.5 percent of eligible lawyers in Texas are chosen each year.

"I'm grateful to be included among such a talented group of women," said Rodenberg. "This recognition comes from my peers, which means that the hard work we accomplish for our clients does not go unnoticed, and I appreciate that."

Through an extensive selection process that involves nominations, independent research and peer evaluation, the Texas Super Lawyers legal guide each year recognizes the top attorneys in the state. Rodenberg was first named to the Texas Rising Stars list in 2017.

She also handles employment and ERISA litigation, personal injury, wrongful death and medical malpractice cases.

She is a 2011 graduate of Southern Methodist University's Dedman School of Law and a member of the Dallas Association of Young Lawyers.
