

Donald Trump Loses Wind Farm Legal Challenge

Donald Trump's legal challenge to a planned offshore wind farm in Scotland has been rejected by the UK's Supreme Court, reports the BBC.

The plan calls for 11 turbines off Aberdeen, close to Trump's golfing development on the Aberdeenshire coast.

Trump's organization said it was an "extremely unfortunate" ruling and it would "continue to fight" the wind farm proposal.

The broadcaster says that Trump "was furious when the Scottish government approved plans for the renewable energy development within sight of his multi-million pound golf development on the Menie estate, north of Aberdeen."

Read the article.