

New Shareholder Joins Buchalter in Los Angeles

Buchalter announces that Willmore (Bill) F. Holbrow III has joined the firm as a shareholder and member of the Intellectual Property and Litigation Practice Groups in Los Angeles.

Holbrow's practice focuses on intellectual property litigation with an emphasis on patent, trademark, copyright, and trade secret matters. He works with clients in a variety of industries including those involving medical devices, apparel, chemical compounds, software, furniture, internet-based applications, LED technology, locks, wheel designs, and electronics.

"Strengthening our intellectual property litigation capabilities has been a focus of ours for quite some time," said Adam Bass, President and Chief Executive Officer of Buchalter. "I am so pleased to welcome Bill as we continue to strategically expand, and we are excited that his practice further enhances the legal services we offer our national and international business community clients."

Prior to his experience in private practice, Holbrow served as an engineer in the Air Force and a first-chair trial attorney in the Air Force Judge Advocate General's Corps handling numerous felony level cases. He attended Loyola Law School and Suffolk University Law School, where he earned his JD, and graduated from the University of California, Los Angeles with a BS in Mechanical Engineering.

"My intellectual property practice fits perfectly within Buchalter's extremely talented Intellectual Property and Litigation teams," said Holbrow. "Additionally, I am eager to introduce my clients to the benefits of the firm's full-service platform.”
