

Corporate Partner Joins Barnes & Thornburg's Dallas Office

Barnes & Thornburg LLP has added corporate and transactional attorney John Dickey to the Dallas office as a partner in the Corporate Department.

Dickey focuses his practice on representing domestic and international businesses in private equity, corporate finance and capital markets-related matters, including sophisticated mergers, acquisitions, divestitures, reorganizations, capital raises, reorganizations and joint ventures.

Dickey also handles complex regulatory and corporate governance issues for financial services industry clients, private equity funds, nonprofits, and family offices.

"John is a highly skilled corporate and transactional attorney who brings more than three decades of experience to the firm," said Mark Bayer, managing partner of the firm's Dallas office. "His work with domestic and international businesses paired with his deep corporate governance knowledge complements our expanding corporate practice and adds value for our clients." Dickey earned his J.D. from St. Mary's University and received his M.P.A. from Texas Christian University, where he served as a University Fellow. He also received his bachelor's degree from Texas Christian University.

Prior to joining Barnes & Thornburg, Dickey was a partner in the Corporate and Transactional Practice at Polsinelli LLP. Early in his legal career, Dickey was associate general counsel with General Dynamics, where he had extensive responsibility for the company's international business matters.
