

Dykema Appoints Adam Fishkind Managing Member of Bloomfield Hills Office

Dykema announced that Adam Fishkind, a member of the firm's Real Estate Practice Group, has been appointed as Managing Member of the firm's Bloomfield Hills office.

In a release, the firm said Fishkind represents in real estate based transactions, including investors, lenders, developers, owners, and operators. He advises clients in commercial real estate transactions, including the acquisition, disposition, development, leasing, management, financing, and syndication of a wide variety of real estate projects such as office buildings, industrial properties, telecommunications facilities, single family and multi-family communities, regional shopping malls, strip shopping centers, parking facilities, hotels, golf courses, and planned developments. He also advises real estate-based business entities with respect to formation and operation, including structure of organization, acquisitions, mergers, reorganizations, dispositions, debt and equity financing, and real estate workouts.

Fishkind is also a member of Dykema's Financial Institutions Team and has experience representing national lending institutions and borrowers in the negotiation, structuring documentation and enforcement of commercial real estate acquisition loans, construction and land development loans and various other commercial lending transactions.

Fishkind earned a J.D., from DePaul University and a B.A., with honors, from Michigan State University.