

Hogan Lovells Adds Former Assistant U.S. Attorney in Los Angeles

Ann C. Kim, a former assistant U.S. Attorney, has joined Hogan Lovells' Los Angeles office as a partner in its Litigation practice.

In a release, the firm said Kim joins the firm after spending more than 12 years working for the federal government with nearly five years in the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Central District of California and, prior to that, seven years as a senior counsel in the Enforcement Division of the Securities and Exchange Commission's (SEC) Los Angeles Regional Office. Before joining the SEC, Kim worked for over six years as a litigation associate and counsel at an international law firm.

While at the U.S. Attorney's Office and the SEC, Kim was involved in investigating and litigating high profile FCPA matters and violations of federal securities laws, including fraud schemes and insider trading cases involving Fortune 500 companies.

Kim received her B.A. from the University of California, Los Angeles and her J.D. from Pepperdine University School of Law.
