

Perkins Coie Adds Real Estate Partner Camarin Madigan in San Francisco

Camarin E.B. Madigan has joined Perkins Coie's Real Estate and Land Use practice in San Francisco.

In a release, the firm said Madigan, an experienced real estate, land use and energy attorney, advises developers, landowners, lenders, and public agencies on acquisitions and dispositions and leasing for complex development projects and commercial properties, as well as land use entitlements and environmental permits. She regularly handles matters that involve an array of property types, including office buildings, research and development campuses, retail centers, medical facilities, hospitals and residential communities.

"The Bay Area is one of the most vibrant real estate markets in the world, and Camarin brings a strong reputation among the major players in the area," said Cecily Barclay, Chair of Perkins Coie's Real Estate and Land Use practice. "Camarin's addition is important to the continued success of our national practice group and to strengthening client relationships through our professional excellence and focused client service."

Madigan's top clients include universities, technology companies, homebuilders and energy companies. She represents Stanford University in negotiating ground leases at the 700-acre Stanford Research Park and in real estate acquisitions, dispositions and leases across Stanford's more than 8,000 acres. She also leads real estate transactions in the San Francisco Bay Area for bio-tech, emerging growth and other tech companies. Camarin counsels homebuilders in the acquisition and development of property for multi-family, mixed-use and transit-oriented projects throughout California. Additionally, Camarin has represented several solar companies in the acquisition and entitlement of solar projects in California, the western United States and internationally.

“Camarin’s addition will make an immediate impact on our firm’s efforts in Northern California and beyond,” said Barbara Schussman, Managing Partner of Perkins Coie’s San Francisco office. “She brings a tremendous opportunity to continue to expand our real estate and land use work in California and nationally.”

Over the course of her career, Madigan has been recognized in The Best Lawyers in America (2017-2019) and in The Legal 500 US (2016-2018), among other nationally recognized rankings. She received her J.D., cum laude, from the University of California, Hastings College of the Law, and her B.A., with honors, from Grinnell College. Madigan joins Perkins Coie from Morgan Lewis.
