

Sidley Adds Litigator Stacy Horth-Neubert in Los Angeles

Stacy Horth-Neubert has joined Sidley Austin LLP in Los Angeles as counsel in its global Litigation group. She joins Sidley from Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP. Her arrival follows that of her former Skadden colleague and seasoned trial litigator Lisa Gilford, who joined Sidley in Los Angeles in January.

Horth-Neubert focuses her practice on commercial litigation, multidistrict litigation and class actions, federal and state appeals, international arbitration, and administrative appeals. She has advised clients on a wide range of matters, including state and local regulation, commercial contract disputes, and unfair business practices and false advertising. Horth-Neubert has represented several internet-based enterprises and large companies in such industries as design, entertainment, fashion, and travel and leisure.

“Stacy has a strong reputation representing clients in high-profile litigation matters,” said Dan Clivner, managing partner of the Greater Los Angeles offices and a member of Sidley’s Executive Committee. “We strive to outperform the expectations of our clients, and are well-positioned to continue doing so with Stacy and Lisa on our team.”

“Stacy has a wealth of experience representing clients in a broad variety of business and commercial disputes,” said Mark Hopson, global practice leader of Sidley’s firmwide Litigation group and a member of Sidley’s Management and Executive Committees. “She is a gifted litigator and will be a great asset to our clients in Greater Los Angeles and globally.”