

Steve Clayton Joins Holland & Hart in Salt Lake City

Holland & Hart announced the addition of Steve Clayton to the firm's Salt Lake City office in the Real Estate Development practice. He previously was an in-house counsel for 12 years, helping a nascent real estate company grow into a private REIT, the firm said in a release.

Clayton services real estate owners, developers, and managers with a variety of matters from offer through diligence and acquisition, from leasing to ongoing management support. His experience extends into general transactional fields assisting real estate companies with related organizational, contracting, risk management, and operational matters.

Clayton is an adjunct associate professor at the S.J. Quinney College of Law teaching contract drafting and co-teaching an intellectual property and business law survey course.
