

Morrison & Foerster Will Eat $16M in Fees, Costs Pursuing Vets' Claims

The law firm that spent nine years fighting and winning health care for veterans subjected to government-administered human testing of chemicals including sarin, mustard gas, and LSD was awarded $3.4 million in fees, a small fraction of the value of the hours the firm said it put into the case.

Bloomberg Law reports that Morrison & Foerster LLP accepted a fee award from the U.S. Army that's $16 million less than the fee the firm could have sought.

"The fee award is the latest and nearly last chapter in the litigation by soldiers subjected to the government's decades-long human testing program who were seeking recognition and health care above what they could get at the Veterans Administration for injuries they suffered," writes Bloomberg's Joyce Cutler.

Read the Bloomberg Law article.