

WB Mills, PLLC, Expands Practice with New North Dallas Office

WB Mills, PLLC, announces the expansion of the practice with a new office located in North Dallas, starting operations on Oct. 1.

WB Mills, PLLC, was created based on the principle of giving small and mid-sized businesses excellent quality and cost-effective representation. The firm is dedicated to protecting its clients' copyright, trademark, patent and other valuable business assets.

Wendy B. Mills, managing attorney, said she is thrilled the company is growing.

In a release, the firm said:

"We are excited to join the wave of explosive growth in the North Texas business community. By adding a North Dallas office, we are answering the demands of our many North Dallas clients to provide them with easier access to our one-on-one personalized legal services. For those North Dallas businesses that have yet to find the right law firm to bridge the gap between the legal, and the business world, our presence in the area will provide small and mid-sized business owners with the option of a smaller, more individualized firm to protect their business assets, including intellectual property through business litigation and representation before the United States Patent and Trademark Office."

WB Mills, PLLC, has directed focus to serving a relatively under-served market in the Dallas, Texas area. The new North Dallas office, is the first expansion of WB Mills,

PLLC,—located just off the North Dallas Toll way and George Bush Turnpike. The current office in Uptown, Dallas will continue to serve clients as always.
