

$200 Million Settlement Approved for Fungal Meningitis Victims

A judge has approved a $200 million settlement for victims of a deadly fungal meningitis outbreak in 2012, reports Michigan Radio.

A Massachusetts pharmacy called the New England Compounding Center was accused of making massive amounts of back pain shots in a dirty lab, according to the report.

The drugs were then shipped all over the country, allegedly sickening almost 1,000 people and killing 64.

Southfield, Mich., attorney Marc Lipton worked on the settlement.

Read the report.