

A Law Firm Fired an Attorney. He Became the Firm's Stalker And Stole an AR-15, Cops Say

Christopher Brady's behavior spurred former employer Barak Law Group PA to get a restraining order that he has violated three times. The Manatee County Sheriff's Office and the referee on his Florida Bar discipline case say surveillance video clearly shows Brady using a pickup truck to rip out the firm's front doors and steal a safe last August, reports the Miami Herald.

And Brady was caught with a semi-automatic rifle he allegedly stole from the firm's storage unit, the sheriff's office says.

Now the 35-year-old lawyer faces two counts of burglary and one count of grand theft firearm.

Barak Law Group fired him in 2018.
