

ABA Names Pinder as New General Counsel

“Thomas Pinder will become the general counsel of the American Bankers Association, the trade group announced Thursday,” reports Brendan Pedersen in American Banker’s Career Moves.

“Pinder, who has worked at the ABA since 2012 and has been deputy counsel since 2017, will succeed Dawn Causey, who has been general counsel since 2003. Causey will retire this month, the ABA said in a press release.”
