Agiloft Appoints Microsoft Veteran Jason Barnwell as CLO

REDWOOD CITY, Calif – Agiloft has appointed Jason Barnwell, a longtime Microsoft legal executive, as its new Chief Legal Officer, effective Dec. 1.

Barnwell brings over 15 years of legal and business leadership experience from Microsoft. There, he most recently served as General Manager and Associate General Counsel for Monetization and Business Planning. At Agiloft, he will oversee internal legal operations and contribute to the company's AI-driven contract lifecycle management (CLM) product strategy.

Barnwell is recognized for advancing legal digital transformation, notably by guiding Microsoft's global contracting engine and streamlining data-driven legal processes supporting the company's procurement operations. His work emphasized integrating machine intelligence into legal workflows to enhance efficiency and business value.

In addition to his corporate experience, Barnwell advises several legal technology initiatives. He serves on nonprofit boards, including the Pacific Science Center. He holds a law degree from USC Gould School of Law and a mechanical engineering degree from MIT.

His appointment aligns with Agiloft's strategy to expand its leadership in AI-based CLM solutions. It positions legal operations as a central force in enterprise digital transformation.

About Agiloft

Agiloft is the global value leader in data-first contract lifecycle management (CLM), offering the industry's only no-code platform with AI on the Inside™ to enhance efficiency, cut review times by up to 80%, and accelerate business. Its Data-first Agreement Platform (DAP) transforms contracts into strategic, data-rich assets, integrating with 1,000+ systems to drive decisions and efficiency.

Trusted by brands like Alkermes, Balluff, and TaylorMade, Agiloft boasts a 96% renewal rate and 100% satisfaction for implementations. Backed by KKR, JMI Equity, and FTV Capital, Agiloft empowers businesses to drive smarter strategies, faster decision-making and game-changing competitive advantage.

Learn more at www.agiloft.com.