Agiloft Wins Top Slot on Capterra's List of Contract Management Software Solutions

Agiloft Inc., a leading provider of Contract Management services, has been named the Most Popular Contract Management Software by Capterra, an online service that connects buyers and sellers of business software.

The rankings for Capterra's Top Contract Management Software infographic are based on a combination of total number of customers, number of active users, and online presence, the company said in a release.

"Agiloft's Contract Management application has skyrocketed in popularity thanks to its comprehensive feature set, which includes everything needed to manage the complete contract lifecycle right out of the box," the release said.

"Available as a SaaS application or in-house deployment, Agiloft's 100% web-based Contract Management solution is accessible anytime, anywhere, so users can manage contracts with vendors, partners, and customers on the go."
