Amanda Mulroony Joins Frost Brown Todd as Litigation Partner in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS – In a strategic move to strengthen its Midwest presence, Frost Brown Todd (FBT) has added Amanda Mulroony as a Partner in its Business & Commercial Litigation practice. This addition enhances the firm's litigation capabilities both regionally and nationally.

Mulroony brings over 15 years of experience handling complex legal disputes in Indiana's state and federal courts. She joins FBT from Hoover Hull Turner, where she built a strong track record representing a wide range of clients. Her move reflects the firm's ongoing growth and its commitment to top-tier legal talent.

Mulroony's client base includes closely held businesses, nonprofits, banks, professionals, and Fortune 100 companies. She has handled matters involving contracts, business torts, ownership disputes, defamation, and employment law.

"Amanda's experience in commercial litigation, employment law, and professional liability is a great fit for our team," said Kandi Hidde, partner-in-charge at FBT Indianapolis. "Her instincts in the courtroom and collaborative style add real value to our clients."

She has also worked on multimillion-dollar real estate cases and high-profile defamation claims. Her background includes guiding clients through non-compete issues and discrimination disputes. Mulroony regularly represents clients in both trials and appeals. Additionally, she advises attorneys and firms on ethics and professional liability concerns.

Mulroony is deeply committed to mentorship and community involvement. She is an alumna of DePauw University's Management Fellows Program of Distinction. Outside of work, she leads a Girl Scouts troop and serves on the Conner Prairie Horizon Council.

Her bar association involvement includes serving on the Litigation Section Executive Committee and the Bench Bar Planning Committee for the Indianapolis Bar Association. She is also a Barrister member of the Indianapolis American Inn of Court, highlighting her dedication to professional excellence and community service.

"Joining FBT feels like the right next step," Mulroony said. "I've always admired the firm's problem-solving approach and high standards. Having worked with FBT attorneys in the past, I know the caliber of talent here."

Frost Brown Todd's litigation group is recognizes for its strategic and timely legal services. The team often steps in before litigation even starts, helping clients manage risk and avoid disputes. When going to court is the best option, the firm fights for positive outcomes with efficiency and precision.

Mulroony's arrival supports this mission. She has been named in The Best Lawyers in America® for both Commercial Litigation and Labor & Employment in 2024 and 2025.

Her experience, leadership, and community focus align perfectly with FBT's values. As the legal landscape continues to evolve, the firm's investment in leaders like Mulroony signals its strong commitment to client success, today and in the future.