Analyzing Contract Terms: General Requirements

Baker Tilly will present a free webinar to help participants better understanding construction contract controls and construction audit best practices.

The webinar will be Wednesday, Nov. 12, beginning at noon Eastern time.

On its website, Baker Tilly says all construction contracts have general conditions provisions. These are project terms that govern how project management costs, mobilization, site clean-up, information technology, and other project support costs are budgeted and billed. Analyzing these contract terms enables the construction contract auditor to build the project audit program and contribute to on time, under budget project delivery.

This case study presentation will illustrate to webinar participants typical general conditions terms, contract red flags, and risk mitigating recommendations.
