Apple’s New GC Welcomed With Multimillion-Dollar Bonus Package

Apple’s incoming chief lawyer Katherine Adams has received a bonus package in the form of restricted stock units, or RSUs, according to a mandatory disclosure filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission this week, reports Mac Rumors.

“Based on Apple’s closing price of $169.08 on Wednesday, each portion of 57,482 RSUs is worth slightly over $9.7 million for a potential total value of $19.4 million,” writes Joe Rossignol. “The amount could be higher or lower based on Apple’s performance.”

Adams, formerly senior vice president and general counsel of Honeywell, is Apple’s new general counsel and senior vice president of Legal and Global Security, reporting to CEO Tim Cook and serving on Apple’s executive team.
