

Are Law Departments and Procurement Like Oil and Water?

✖ Bridgeway University will present a webcast that explores the ever increasing relationship between in-house counsel and corporate procurement. The webcast will be Wednesday, July 30, beginning at 11:30 a.m. Central time.

With the continued focus on cost control, many law departments are being asked to partner with their procurement colleagues to drive savings, but the two groups often come at the savings challenge from different, and at times conflicting perspectives.

This webcast will benefit law department leaders and procurement professionals alike, highlighting best practices and lessons learned from those who have fought the battle and won.

Register for the webcast.