

Are You Ethical Enough for Government Work?

Aronson & Company has posted a free webinar on the finer points of ethics as they relate to government contracts.

It's important for government contractors to conduct themselves with the highest degree of integrity and honesty, Aronson says.

Contracts should maintain a written code of business ethics & conduct, an employee ethics & compliance training program, an employee ethics & compliance training program and an internal control system.

The webinar also covers a wide array of compliance requirements.

Presenters are Thomas Marcinko, Principal Consultant, and Jacob Blass, President of Ethical Advocate.
