A survey by international law firm Womble Bond Dickinson illuminates corporate preparedness for requirements in the U.S., U.K., and EU – plus new challenges posed by AI and emerging technologies

Privacy Do's and Don'ts for

General Counsel

As chief problem solver, GCs are expected to lead on privacy compliance, yet many companies out there are still getting it wrong. With a recent survey revealing over half of businesses suffered a data breach in the last 24 months, the odds of a data breach occurring, if it hasn't already, under a GCs watch are shortening.

Wiggin Opportunity Initiative Donates $3M in Legal Services to Minority-Owned Businesses and Partners with Bloomberg L.P. To Expand the Scope of Initiative

For the third consecutive year, the firm has provided $1 million in free legal services to women and minority-owned businesses through its Wiggin Opportunity Initiative.

Amid the racial reckoning that followed George Floyd's murder in July 2020, Wiggin launched WOI, which pledges to provide $10 million in free legal services to women and minority-owned businesses by 2030. The firm remains on track to meet that pledge – exemplifying accountability, measurement, and the ongoing need for racial equity support despite (and even more so because of) broader economic challenges.
