Kat Gallagher to be Inducted as IATL Fellow

Kat Gallagher, partner in Beck Redden's Houston office, has been invited to become a Fellow of the International Academy of Trial Lawyers (IATL).

"With more than 25 years practicing law, Kat has distinguished herself as an elite trial lawyer with outstanding instincts for how to best tell her client's story in the most persuasive and compelling manner," the firm said in a release. "Her invitation to become an IATL Fellow is well deserved."

The news release continues:

"I am truly honored and grateful to become an IATL Fellow" said Kat. "I am humbled to have received this recognition from the judges before whom I have appeared and from my peers."

Kat will officially be inducted as an IATL Fellow during a ceremony to be held on July 25, 2015.

Membership in the Academy is limited to only 500 Fellows in the U.S. under the age of 70. Standards for admission are high and the process is extremely thorough. Imperative qualities for every nominee include outstanding skills and extensive experience as a trial lawyer, unimpeachable personal and professional character, and integrity and honesty, among others.

The purposes of the IATL are to promote the rule of law, promote reforms in the law, facilitate the administration of justice, and elevate the standards of integrity, honor, and courtesy in the legal profession globally.
