

Begley Awarded $1.8M in Settlement

Assistant Chief Mark Begley was awarded a $1.84 million lawsuit settlement against the County of Kaua'i and Kaua'i Police Department, reports Jason Blasco in The Garden Island.

"Begley was put on paid administrative leave in March 2012 when he filed a stress-based worker's compensation claim, citing a hostile work environment. He was reinstated in June 2019."

"In 2016, Begley initiated a federal lawsuit against the county, KPD and several senior officers, claiming that the now-retired KPD Chief Darryl Perry and his successor, former Acting Chief Michael Contrades, harassed and retaliated against him for reporting allegations that another assistant chief acted inappropriately toward a subordinate female officer."
