

Biglaw Firm Delights With Up to $40,000 Extra in Bonus Money for Big Billers

Another Biglaw firm has announced its bonus scales for associates, but this one adds something extra for those lawyers who put in the really long hours, reports Above the Law.

Schulte, Roth & Zabel announced a bonus scale that is in line with other Biglaw firms that have already announced. Associates in the classes of 2010-2012 will receive $100,000, while more recent hires can expect bonuses ranging from $15,000 to $90,000, depending on their length of service.

The firm will provide extra payouts of $20,000 or $40,000 to associates who hit billable-hour marks of 2,300 or 2,500 hours, respectively.
