

Boies Schiller Becomes Latest Big Law Firm to Require Vaccines

“Law firm Boies Schiller Flexner will require attorneys and staff going into its U.S. offices to be fully vaccinated, effective Tuesday. The vaccine requirement also applies to vendors entering any of the firm’s 10 offices, a firm spokeswoman told Bloomberg Law. Boies Schiller will ask unvaccinated,” reports Chris Opfer in Bloomberg Law.

“The implementation of this vaccine requirement is critical to safeguarding the health of the lawyers, staff and families in our Boies Schiller Flexner community, the firm spokeswoman said via email. Our number one priority throughout the pandemic has been the overall safety and wellbeing of our people and that consideration.”

Read the article.