Bradley Partner David W. Owen Elected Fellow of American College of Construction Lawyers

Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP is pleased to announce that David W. Owen, a partner in the firm's Birmingham office, has been elected a Fellow of the American College of Construction Lawyers (ACCL).

The ACCL is a national organization of lawyers who have demonstrated skill, experience, and high standards of professional and ethical conduct and who have demonstrated a commitment to excellence in construction law. The Class of 2022 Fellows is comprised of eight attorneys.

"This is a very well-deserved achievement for David," said Bradley Birmingham Office Managing Partner Dawn Helms Sharff. "David has tremendous knowledge and experience in the construction industry, and his leadership has helped make the firm's construction practice one of the most highly regarded in the nation."

Mr. Owen leads Bradley's Construction Practice Group and is co-chair of the firm's Energy team. He is a registered professional engineer and represents contractors, subcontractors, engineers and owners in private and government contract matters nationally and internationally. Mr. Owen has significant experience with Mega-Projects, EPC projects, solar facilities, biomass projects, fossil-fueled generation facilities, and a variety of other issues connected by construction, energy and engineering. He has been recognized in The Best Lawyers in America® since 2013 in the area of Construction Law and was named a BTI Client Service All-Star.

Bradley was named the “Law Firm of the Year” for Construction Law in the 2022 edition of U.S. News – Best Lawyers® “Best Law Firms.” Attorneys in the firm’s Construction Practice Group advise clients on projects in the United States, Canada and Mexico, as well as in more than 35 countries across Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, the Middle East, the Caribbean and South America. The team handles every aspect of large-scale construction projects, from initial contract negotiation and bid preparation to project close-out and dispute resolution. Several of Bradley’s construction lawyers hold degrees in engineering, building science or architecture, and have previous experience working in the construction industry.

About Bradley

Bradley combines skilled legal counsel with exceptional client service and unwavering integrity to assist a diverse range of corporate and individual clients in achieving their business goals. With offices in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and the District of Columbia, the firm’s nearly 550 lawyers represent regional, national and international clients in various industries, including banking and financial services, construction, energy, healthcare, life sciences, manufacturing, real estate, and technology, among many others.