Bradley Partner Jon Paul Hoelscher Elected to Construction Law Section Council of the State Bar of Texas

Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP is pleased to announce that Jon Paul Hoelscher, a partner in the firm's Houston office, has been elected to serve as a council member for the Construction Law Section of the State Bar of Texas. He will serve a three-year term on the council.

A member of Bradley's Construction and Energy practice groups, Mr. Hoelscher is board certified in Construction Law by the Texas Board of Legal Specialization. He is often called to serve as a trusted legal advisor to his clients, providing a well-rounded approach to risk management, litigation and general business issues. He represents general contractors, subcontractors, oil field service companies, product and equipment manufacturers, as well as property owners and developers in a wide range of transactional and litigation matters. Mr. Hoelscher is recognized as a leading practitioner in Texas in the area of Construction in the 2021 edition of Chambers USA. He has also been recognized in The Best Lawyers in America® since 2019 and in Who's Who Legal: Construction since 2020 and was listed in Texas Super Lawyers in 2020.

The Construction Law Section of the State Bar of Texas is comprised of over 2,500 members consisting of legal professionals involved in the practice of construction law. The section's goal is to provide quality continuing legal education to help members stay informed of the latest legal issues impacting the construction industry.
