

Brown Rudnick Announces Addition of Julia Bennett as Chief Marketing Officer

International law firm Brown Rudnick LLP announced the addition of Julia Bennett as Chief Marketing Officer, resident in the Firm's Washington, D.C. office. She heads the Firm's business development, marketing, public relations, and communications strategy and initiatives for Brown Rudnick's offices worldwide.

Bennett joins the Firm from Venable LLP, where she was Senior Director of Business Development. She served as a senior leader of Venable's Marketing Department, including the oversight of the business development, research, and competitive intelligence teams.

At Brown Rudnick, Bennett is responsible for leading all marketing and business development functions and projects with responsibility for global client development, business strategy, public relations, and marketing and communications.

Bennett holds a J.D. from The University of Chicago Law School, an M.A. from The George Washington University, and an A.B. from Duke University. Prior to a career in legal marketing, Bennett practiced as a corporate lawyer at other prominent international law firms. She handled corporate matters in the commercial and mergers and acquisitions contexts for both private and public companies. Bennett is admitted in New York and Washington, D.C. She is a member also of the Board of Advisors of ActLocal360, a nonprofit organization committed to bringing about systemic change through local community action.

Additional biographical information and credentials are available at brownrudnick.com.