

Buchalter Expands IP Practice in Denver with Steven Weigler

Buchalter, a national law firm, has strengthened its intellectual property (IP) practice in Denver with the addition of Steven Weigler as an IP Partner, the firm announced Thursday. Joining Weigler is Associate Marie Dutton, who will form a new team to enhance the firm's intellectual property law expertise.

Weigler, a recognized leader in IP protection, brings extensive experience advising clients on brand strategy and intellectual property matters. His background includes work with high-profile businesses, ranging from startups to Fortune 50 companies. Weigler's dual experience as both an entrepreneur and corporate counsel positions him to assist clients in the SaaS and eCommerce sectors with complex legal needs.

"Joining Buchalter was a natural next step for us," said Weigler. "The firm offers a national platform and comprehensive resources that align with my clients' growing business needs."

Dutton, who holds a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering from Colorado State University and a J.D. from the University of Missouri, specializes in intellectual property law. She previously worked as a Legal Extern at Venture Partners and at the Technology Transfer Office at the University of Colorado-Boulder.

Buchalter's Denver office Managing Partner, Rob Hinckley, praised the new hires. "Steve and Marie's deep expertise in both the business and technical aspects of intellectual property will be a major asset to our clients," he said.
