

Capital One Data Breach $190M Class Action Settlement

“Capital One will pay $190 million to resolve claims it jeopardized customer information in a 2019 data breach. The settlement benefits around 98 million Capital One customers whose information was compromised as part of the 2019 data breach. Capital One offers a variety of financial services to,” reports Top Class Actions in their blog.

“However, according to the bank, its customers were targeted in a 2019 Data Breach. In July 2019, Capital One informed its customers that millions of them had their information compromised when a third party accessed bank systems. Although the perpetrator was captured by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), sensitive information.”

Read the article.