

Chamberlain Hrdlicka Continues To Expand In Atlanta

Chamberlain Hrdlicka welcomes Senior Associate John Nail and Associate Reed Turry to the firm's Atlanta office. Nail joins the nationally recognized Tax Controversy & Litigation practice, comprised of attorneys experienced in advising and representing taxpayers before federal, state and local taxing authorities and in all federal and state courts where tax disputes are litigated. Turry joins the Corporate, Securities, & Finance group, a team of seasoned attorneys who serve as general or special legal advisors to many public and privately-held companies, as well as partnerships, strategic alliances and joint ventures. These attorneys are the latest additions to Chamberlain's rapidly growing Atlanta office.

John Nail

Nail's practice focuses on representing clients in all aspects of matters involving the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), from examination and appeals to litigation in the U.S. Tax Court and Federal District Court. His considerable experience allows him to effectively counsel clients in tax matters, including disallowed deductions for charitable contributions, executive compensation and bad business debts; employment tax compliance; state sales and use tax audits; and collection activities. Nail also has experience counseling high net worth individuals and corporate clients on issues related to tax, estate and business planning. He handled disputes with the IRS and state taxing authorities related to deficiency proceedings, refund claims and collection activities while working at a firm in North Carolina. Super Lawyers listed Nail among North Carolina's Rising Stars in 2019 and 2020, and Business North Carolina named him to the North Carolina Legal Elite in the areas of Tax and Estate Planning (2016) and Young Guns (2018 and 2019). Nail earned his undergraduate degree from the College of Charleston and his law degree from Wake Forest University School of Law.

Reed H. Turry

Turry represents companies in a variety of transactional and corporate matters, including mergers and acquisitions, securities offerings, corporate finance, entity selection and corporate governance. He additionally serves as outside general counsel, advising clients on a broad range of corporate legal issues. While in law school, Turry gained experience working in both governmental entities and Fortune 500 companies, interning at SunTrust, The Home Depot, The Coca-Cola Company, the Federal Trade Commission, and the State of Georgia Attorney General Office's Consumer Protection Division. This experience helps him understand his clients' internal corporate and external regulatory environments, providing them with straightforward and insightful answers to a wide variety of legal questions. Turry is also a Certified Information Privacy Professional/United States (CIPP/US), representing specialized knowledge of the privacy and cybersecurity legal landscape. He earned his undergraduate degree from the University of Georgia and his law degree from the University of Georgia School of Law.
