Chandler Combest Rejoins Bradley's Corporate and Securities Practice

Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP is pleased to announce that Chandler Combest has rejoined the firm's Corporate and Securities Practice Group. Most recently, Mr. Combest served as senior vice president and general counsel for the Frazer Lanier Company.

"We are thrilled to welcome Chandler back to the firm, where his commitment to excellence will be a benefit to our team and to our clients," said Bradley Birmingham Office Managing Partner Dawn Helms Sharff.

Mr. Combest, a senior attorney in Bradley's Birmingham office, focuses his practice on public finance, including serving as bond counsel and underwriter's counsel on both tax-exempt and taxable financings throughout Alabama. He has worked with numerous public entities and represents governmental entities in economic development matters. Mr. Combest has additional experience representing borrowers and lenders in commercial lending transactions, tax credit transactions, and state and federal regulatory compliance matters across a broad range of industries.

Mr. Combest is a graduate of the University of Alabama School of Law, and he earned his B.A. (summa cum laude) from Auburn University.
