

Chicken of the Sea Tuna Price Fixing $20M Class Action Lawsuit Settlement

“The settlement benefits indirect purchasers of Chicken of the Sea tuna products who purchased the products in certain states and territories between June 1, 2011, and July 1, 2015. Eligible products may have been packaged in cans or pouches smaller than 40 ounces. Chicken of the Sea agreed to pay,” reports Top Class Actions in their blog.

“It worked with other tuna companies to artificially raise the price of tuna products, and Class Members do not need proof of purchase to make a claim. The settlement benefits indirect purchasers of Chicken of the Sea tuna products who purchased the products in certain states and territories between June 1, 2011 and July 1, 2015. Eligible.”
