

Chiefs Beginning Contract Negotiations with S Tyrann Mathieu at Combine

“The Kansas City Chiefs are in the preliminary stages of negotiating contracts with several pending free agents. In just 15 short days the NFL’s free agency period will begin, which means that Chiefs GM Brett Veatch and his team have a lot of work to accomplish. One pending free agent that has been on,” reports Charles Goldman in Chiefs Wire.

“A staple on the Chiefs’ defense since signing as a free agent in 2019, Mathieu’s three-year contract is up on March 16. Speaking to the media on Tuesday, Veatch explained that he had spoken with Mathieu’s representation following the AFC championship game loss. Both sides still had a mutual interest in getting a deal done, but now is when the.”

Read the article.