

City Agrees to More than $2 Million Settlement in Parking Ramp Lawsuit

“A more than $2 million settlement was unanimously approved to end Rochester’s yearlong lawsuit related to the city’s newest parking ramp. The Rochester City Council agreed to accept a $2,025,000 settlement Monday night. The agreement which remained confidential until the settlement was approved,” reports Randy Petersen in Post Bulletin.

“Kraus-Anderson Construction Co. and MEP Associates LLC to make payments to the city within 30 days. City Attorney Michael Spindler-Krage said the exact split of the payments remains confidential and unknown to city officials. Additionally, the agreement does not include an admission of liability by any of the companies involved.”

Read the article.