

Cloud Contracts – Risks and Mitigation Strategies

☒ Scott & Scott and Iron Mountain will present a webinar on the risks associated with cloud contracts and methods to mitigate those risks, including effective use of software escrow agreements.

The webinar will be July 30 at 10 a.m. Central time.

Join Robert Scott of Scott & Scott, LLP and Frank Bruno of Iron Mountain will be the presenters.

Cloud contracts come with significant risks for security and privacy, business continuity, intellectual property and third-party litigation, especially as they relate to sudden cessation of business or an extended outage that is beyond the control of the provider, said a Scott & Scott spokesman. Companies have difficulty entrusting critical business processes to the cloud without certain protections in place.
