

Coca-Cola Shakes Up In-House Legal Team

“The Coca-Cola Company ... announced the election of Monica Howard Douglas as senior vice president and general counsel,” released The Coca-Cola Company in their Press Releases.

“Douglas is a 17-year veteran of the company who most recently served as chief compliance officer and associate general counsel for the North America operating unit. In her new role, Douglas will oversee the company’s global legal function, reporting to Chairman and CEO James Quincey.”

“Douglas joined Coca-Cola in 2004 as senior managing counsel. She went on to hold roles of increasing responsibility, including as legal director for Coca-Cola Southern and East Africa, before being named general counsel for Coca-Cola North America in 2018.”
