

Companies in Need of Seasonal Contract Workers

“Every holiday season, companies need people to work seasonal jobs in the retail and hospitality industries, but the need is also great for seasonal contract workers. Companies are looking for seasonal contract workers to help with IT security, E-commerce, and pandemic-related tasks at schools,” reports Aaron Cantrell in News Channel 5.

“Experts report the demand is so high workers have the upper hand. They can ask to work from home and ask for a higher pay. Last year, 54% of companies reported they were looking for end of the year contract workers. This year, 74% of companies in a new survey tell talent solutions firm Robert Half they’re looking for end of the year.”

Read the article.