

Conspiracy Theorist Loses Case Against Robert Mueller

A federal judge dismissed a lawsuit against former special counsel Robert Mueller, rejecting a conspiracy theorist's claim that Mueller pressured him to commit perjury during the investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 election, according to a Courthouse News report.

Jerome Corsi alleged that Mueller violated the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure by leaking grand jury information about him to the media to pressure him into giving false testimony.

Courthouse News' Jack Rodgers quotes the ruling: "The article explicitly references Mueller's 'case,' indicating that the information relates to his investigation and not to the grand jury's investigation. Moreover, the article does not attribute any information to Mueller or anyone else associated with the grand jury investigation."

Read the Courthouse News article.