

David Karceski Named to Baltimore Mayor-Elect Brandon Scott's Transition Team

David Karceski, partner in the Venable State and Local Government Practice, was named to Baltimore Mayor-elect Brandon Scott's transition team as part of the Committee for Housing & Neighborhood Development: Increasing Access to Affordable Housing. In this role, Mr. Karceski will work closely with the transition committee co-chair and steering committee to generate proposals for how to rebuild city government, and ensure functioning, equitable, and efficient operations for all of Baltimore's residents.

Karceski concentrates his practice on real estate development and zoning and land use matters. He assists local, regional, and national clients in obtaining legislative, administrative, and regulatory approvals during all phases of real estate development and permitting in Baltimore City, Baltimore County, and other jurisdictions in Maryland. He has experience with transit-oriented developments, mixed-use town centers, industrial and office parks, institutional campus improvements, multifamily communities and residential subdivisions, and a variety of other projects.
