

Davies Group Brings in New General Counsel as it Furthers Global Push

The Davies Group, a professional services and technology firm, has hired a new lead for all legal matters as it looks to further its global expansion, reports Paul Lucas in Insurance Business America's Breaking News.

"The company has appointed Jeff Chang in a newly created role as general counsel. The partner at Osborne Clarke LLP has made a name for himself as a specialist in M&A transactional services and is now set to join Davies on July 01 reporting to Tony Debiase, the group chief financial officer."

"The move comes shortly after Davies announced the appointment of James Heath as group chief risk officer and now the firm is looking to further its global ambitions."
