

Daylen Docampo Perez Joins RPHC as Associate General Counsel

“Daylen comes to RPHC from the Office of the City Attorney in Hialeah, Florida, where she served as Assistant City Attorney since 2014. Her areas of practice while with the City of Hialeah included contract, corporate, and municipal law and procurement. During her time there, she represented and provided legal advice to the City in all matters related to its operation with special focus in the purchasing,” reports Adjusters International in their blog.

“She has experience with drafting and negotiating city agreements of all kinds, including those necessary to secure needed resources for the efficient operation of the municipal government, as well as overseeing the bidding process for those resources in compliance with federal, state, and local regulations.”
