

Demystifying Analytics in eDiscovery

✖ Steven Toole, vice president of marketing at Content Analyst Company, has authored a white paper titled “Demystifying Analytics in eDiscovery – The Facts You Need to Succeed and Thrive in an Electronic World.” The paper is available on the company’s website.

This overview is designed to unveil the mysticism surrounding analytics in eDiscovery and information governance, and provide insights about the return on investment analytics can enable for those who embrace these capabilities, Mr. Toole said. Corporate counsel that get ahead of the curve today with forward-thinking strategies such as these will be the ultimate heroes and beneficiaries of eDiscovery analytics, leading their field with a much more proactive and cost-effective approach to information governance and legal technology.

Read the white paper.