Developing an Incident Response Plan

The International Legal Technology Association presents a free on-demand webinar that discusses how to develop and maintain an effective data breach response program.

The webinar is sponsored by IDT911 Consulting.

“You have an effective fire prevention program, but you still wouldn’t want to be caught without an evacuation plan. Similarly, you want to augment your data security program with a plan that directs the members of your firm what to do in the event of a data breach,” the firm says on its website. “Developing such a plan involves much more than posting a document on your intranet that will (hopefully, but probably not) be remembered and followed during the crisis.”

The speaker is Deena Coffman, Information Security Officer for IDT911 and the CEO of the subsidiary IDT911 Consulting. She has broad experience with providing guidance to clients on technology, data privacy and security, electronic discovery, advanced search and data analytics.
