Earl Adams, Jr. Named Member of Bowie State University Board of Visitors

DLA Piper announces that Earl Adams, Jr., of counsel in the firm's Baltimore and Washington, DC offices, has been named a member of Bowie State University Board of Visitors.

The Bowie State University Board of Visitors serves as an advisory group that assists with the advancement of the university's mission and vision. They work directly with the university president and provide feedback on the university's initiatives and strategic direction.

In his law practice, Adams represents national clients before all branches of federal, state and local government, including various administrative agencies, and in development transactions involving public-private partnerships. Adams is active in a range of civic organizations, serving on the boards of the Seed School of Maryland and the Parks Foundation of Prince George's County. He was also appointed by the Governor Maryland to be a director on the board of the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority. His other activities include serving on the 2008 Obama-Biden Transition Team for the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Boston College Law School National Alumni Assembly.
