

DoD Wants to 'Reconsider Certain Aspects' of Decision to Award Microsoft $10B JEDI Contract

"New court filings reveal that the Department of Defense wants to 'reconsider certain aspects' of its decision to award Microsoft with the coveted $10 billion Joint Enterprise Defense Infrastructure contract," reports Taylor Soper in GeekWire.

"The latest legal development is part of Amazon's protest over the prestigious cloud computing deal, known as JEDI. Amazon Web Services sued the federal government after Microsoft emerged as the surprise winner of the JEDI contract last year."

"In the new filing, a motion for voluntary remand, the DoD said that it 'wishes to reconsider its award decision in response to the other technical challenges presented by AWS.' The DoD is asking for 120 days to assess the matter. It wants to specifically examine one issue related to 'online marketplace offerings.'"

Read the article.