

Elite Biglaw Firm Gently Reminds Associates to Get Back to the Office After Remote August

“The dog days of summer are here, and for those who are working at Biglaw firms that adopted a “remote August” plan, the clock is ticking on their full-time work-from-home flexibility. Earlier this week, one of the top firms in the nation emailed all of its associates to let them know just how little time,” reports Staci Zaretsky in Above The Law.

“Skadden Arps a firm that came in at No. 5 on the most recent Am Law 100 ranking after bringing in $3,022,380,000 gross revenue in 2021 has permitted all of its attorneys to work remotely this month, but once September rolls around, things will look a little different for the firm. Executive partner Eric Friedman noted.”

Read the article.