New Hire Notifications and Other State Requirements: Understanding the Compliance Challenge

Equifax will present a webinar featuring a leading labor attorney talking about the fast-growing number of new hire reporting and notification requirements states are imposing on employers, and how HR professionals can better manage the process of monitoring, interpreting and enforcing them.

The webinar will be Tuesday, June 23, at noon Central time.

Topics will include:
• Key legislative trends in state and municipal regulations
• Overview of recently passed and upcoming state new hire requirements
• Best practices in managing the requirements

Chad Richter, a Partner with Jackson Lewis, will provide detail about selected individual requirements at the state and local level, such as the Massachusetts requirement earned sick time requirement taking effect July 1 and others. He will be joined by Julia Bailey, Sr. Director of Product Management at Equifax Workforce Solutions, and the two will clarify how such laws should be interpreted and how to meet their requirements. They'll also discuss how employers can best manage the compliance challenges that the numerous requirements create.
