

Accounting Expert Witness – Selecting The Best

The Expert Institute interviewed several top accounting experts to find out how you can be sure you're selecting the right accounting expert witness for your next case. Joe O'Neill's report is available at TheExpertInstitute.com.

“When it comes to complex financial litigation, an expert witness with the skills and training of an accountant can be an essential part of any case, providing answers and insights into the intricacies of company balance sheets or the value of personal property,” he wrote. “With a range of specializations, certifications, and professional backgrounds, selecting an accounting expert witness can present a unique challenge, however the right expert can greatly increase the odds of victory well before a case ever reaches trial.”
